The United States and the Latin The United States and the Latin-American governments, according to the explanation given in high official quarters, intend merely to exercise judiciously the international right of awarding format recognition to a government in a neighboring country which is boost capable of siving the necessary quarantee of life and property and of complying with international obligations. The appeal addressed by the seven governments takes the form of an inquiry to determine such of the factions or elements as are willing to rehabilitate the nation's movereignty. Those elements which respond will be considered as exponents of national paments which respond will be considered as exponents of national partitotism in Mexico, while those who refuse to enter into such a plan will be ignored.
